Patriotism Out Of Style?

One of the four young Americans who deserted from the aircraft carrier Intrepid said: "I am just an American standing up for what I think is right. I am not alone."

He is neither alone nor right. There appear to be thousands who construe the right of protest to include the right to make an individual determination, at any given time, to renounce obligations imposed by society. Patriotism seems to be held by many in slight respect these days. It is a misreading of the way things are, and must be.

Patriotism is defined by many people in many ways; some think it requires waving the flag, others invest the concept with a sense of nationalism that exalts itself by diminishing all outsiders.

The San Francisco longshoreman philosopher, Eric Hoffer, says that patriotism is "the day-to-day competence of the workingman." That strikes us as very near the truth.

No man is an island. Each belongs to a community, generally several concentric communities — family, neighborhood, work place, city, state, nation. "Belong" is the key word. In affording him membership, the community also possesses him and requires his loyalty. It is a kind of exchange — the community looks after the individual and the individual pulls his weight in the community. Perfect justice does not always result, for the individual or for the community. But it is a natural, logical system, and civilization offers no alternative.

Any system, by definition, works by rules or laws, and it is the essence of civilization that even when the system fails and must be changed, the changes must be made in an orderly way, in accordance with the rules. Behavior that accords with these rules is definable as patriotism. The fervor that inspires some to respect and defend the order in times of great peril and stress is the degree of patriotism that is hailed in story and song.

When the reverse occurs — when four young men desert the Intrepid — they hand their shipmates an unpaid bill and say, "You pay it." And by lending themselves to the propaganda purposes of Communists as they have in Moscow, they make that price more costly.

The right of protest is important, but it is obviously not absolute, or there would be no society whatever. The four deserters had pledged to carry their share of their country's burden, and at a critical moment they reneged on that pledge. In those circumstances their belated challenge to the validity of the job they were doing is impertinent. A fireman answering an alarm might suddenly recall that the owners of the burning house are a wicked lot, but he cannot just leap off the fire truck.

A Bit Of Agreement

So much of the international news is disagreeable that any significant piece of good news merits particular attention. This description applies to the recently announced U.S.-Soviet agreement on restricting the catch of Soviet fishing vessels in waters off our Middle Atlantic coast.

The importance of this as a conservation measure is in itself worthy of note. Intensive fishing by Russian fleets is thought to have been the main reason for a drop in the tonnage of fish taken in waters south of Cape Cod. Moscow's undertaking to limit its catch in the region next year to the 1967 level of about 66,000 tons, and to hold off entirely during the three-month schooling period the first part of the year, will help to rebuild the species involved.

The significance of the agreement goes beyond that, however. For this, the first bilateral accord between Moscow and Washington since the airlines agreement was signed a year ago, is further proof that the two countries are not hopelessly at odds despite their differences over Vietnam.

Under the airlines agreement the Russians hope to begin regular service to New York in mid-December. The fishing agreement will take effect January 1. In recent years the United States and the Soviet Union also have signed accords on mass weapons in space, nuclear testing, and military installations in the Antarctic. If all goes well, the two nations' remaining differences on a treaty to curb the spread of nuclear weapons may soon be resolved. Such evidence that disputes can be settled by negotiation and compromise rather than force are welcome in this tense world.

Keeps Mouth Open 30 Years—Keeps Feet Away

By JAMES MARLOW

AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — He's been in politics 30 years and he learned young one of the very best ways to miss being the No. 1 man is to catch foot-in-mouth disease.

His mouth has been constantly open for 30 years but he has been very sanitary about it. He kept his feet away.

In time he became the No. 1 man. And in his early White House days President Johnson's mouth was constantly open, on television, in speeches, or in one way or another, always saying something.

He seemed to have a compulsion to say something in those early days on Pennsylvania Avenue until he was reminded often enough he was not a hit on television or as a public speaker.

He was too stiff, too often what he said spontaneously or from a prepared text was just corn. His television appearances grew less frequent and so did his wide-open news conferences. Meanwhile he continued to see

White House reporters frequently by calling them into his office to make a statement or answer questions. Then at a big news conference last Nov. 17 he found a method that really clicked.

Instead of staying glued, as he had so often in the past, to a fixed microphone on a fixed podium behind which he stood as fixed and stiff as a cigar-store Indian, he decided to put a microphone around his neck.

He was a new man, free to roam around, twist his head or wave his hands to make a point. Congratulatory telegrams poured in. He was delighted. This is probably how Johnson will do much of his talking in the future.

He talks fast but he has learned from his 30 years of public life not to be careless with the language which, through a clumsy or offensive word, could turn him into a laughing-stock or a political corpse.

But this long training in being careful is one reason why some of his news conferences could be done without, for some of them haven't meant much. Playing the cards close to your chest is not the best way to give information.

A good example was the sudden conference Monday with White House reporters. He called them into the Cabinet Room to announce he had named a new Marine Corps commandant, Lt. Gen. Leonard F. Chapman Jr.

After revealing that he sat back to give very unrevealing answers to reporters' questions.

One example was a question about the tax increase he wants from Congress. What he said, in effect, was that he thinks it's necessary, which is what he had said a dozen times before. Another question was about his fellow Democrat from Minnesota, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, who is setting out to try to frustrate Johnson's chances for renomination in 1968 by entering some presidential primaries.

Johnson's answer was another banality: That he thinks anyone has a right to try for anything he wants to run for.

And so on. There is something to be said for the kind of vacuity Johnson left behind him Monday. From his long training he has probably decided he won't be nudged into comment on McCarthy until he thinks the time and the occasion are right, if ever.

But this habit of a lifetime, of picking his own spots to say something, makes some of his sessions with reporters painful, if not useless.

U.S., Saigon Can Whip VC In The War For The Hamlets

By RAY CROMLEY

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — If it is true, as the data seems to indicate, that the Ho Chi Minh apparatus in the south is being reorganized for a conventional, long-range underground insurgency, it opens an opportunity for U.S. and South Vietnamese government forces.

In the months immediately ahead, Americans and South Vietnamese have their best opportunity to date to make real gains in knocking out the Viet Cong-North Vietnamese political-economic-psychological warfare underground organization which is the real base of Communist strength in South Vietnam. This organization provides the intelligence, recruiting and logistics base on which the VC and North Vietnamese armies operate.

The underground organization, depleted in the past two years when the Communists thought a quick victory was in the offing, bumbled widely in its dealings with farmers and the city poor.

The new VC cadre, out to build a base for a long-term underground war, will have to mend fences in areas where second-rate VC cadre replacements of the past two years antagonized many people with crude terrorism, exorbitant tax collection and pompous arrogance.

The VC underground structure today is weak in many spots. These loopholes are being mended in the reorganization. But this will take time. Replacement of second raters with able men is not quickly done.

Thus the U.S.-South Vietnam opportunity is to act before Hanoi has time to rebuild the twilight organization it once had.

In this new situation, any "peace talks" in which Ho participated would be a maneuver to buy time to enable the new party underground to fix itself securely in place.

On our side, the VC-North Vietnamese underground rebuilding must be fought principally with U.S.-South Vietnamese civilian effort which must overtake in quality the military build-up of the past few years.

This doesn't require huge numbers of new U.S. personnel. Rather, it means small numbers of highly skilled, highly motivated, carefully picked men who have the ability to get along with other men.

For the job at hand is to work with and inspire — not dominate — Vietnam's villagers.

As a corollary, new types of Vietnamese leaders will have to be trained for work in the countryside, where the war will be won or lost. The traditional upper-class, white-shirted Vietnamese is not effective in farming communities. He must be replaced in the hamlets by local, young leaders chosen from among typical village families.

These leaders — who understand how the other half lives because they're from that group themselves — must be trained and sent back into the hamlets to match wits with the VC-North Vietnamese underground.

This new brand of men on our side will also create the basis for widened leadership in the hamlets when the war is won.

Ann Landers: Willing to be Found

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: A woman wrote a while back and wanted to know where all the eligible men were hiding.

I am a widower who is not hiding. As a matter of fact, I have been actively looking for a woman to marry. Here is what I have found:

(1) A self-effacing martyr who wanted nothing for herself—only a stern disciplinarian who could "do something" with her two unruly brats.

(2) A charming, beautiful, well-educated widow who gloried in the fact that her first husband had never seen her naked, and by gum, her second husband wouldn't either.

Next, I tried computer matching. Of the 11 prospects, one tried to convert me to her religion, a second wanted to use me to regain custody of her children, a third thought she was a saint, and so on.

Recently I was urged to try nudism since the people in the camps are so "real and friendly." Well, I did try it. Result: Zero. Nudism I can take or leave alone, but the women I met in the nudist camp were crazy over bingo, duplicate bridge and grade B movies.

Hereafter, Ann, I'll be "hiding" at the symphony, the theater, lectures, professional meetings, art galleries and the bookstores. If you see me, call me—MR. SEARCHING

Dear Mr.: Nobody can say you haven't tried. In fact, maybe you've tried too hard. Why don't you relax, keep your shirt on and let some nice woman find you.

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter, Amy, is three years old. There are several children in this neighborhood and during the summer months they all play in our backyard, which is fenced in.

Now that winter is here the children play in the house. They make so much noise I always ask them to close the door. Yesterday I heard Amy say, "Let's play doctor." She was in the room with a 4-year-old girl and a 9-year-old boy. I immediately went in and suggested that they come into the kitchen and help me bake cookies.

Christmas Wrap Goes To Beardstown Trees

By Virgil Reither
BEARDSTOWN — This is the season of the year for gift wrapping and a local firm has turned it into a time for wrapping Christmas trees too.

Yankee ingenuity and a desire to improve market-bound products have brought an innovation in selling Christmas trees at Illinois Forest Products company, one of the largest wholesalers of native pine trees in the Midwest.

Trees from the Beardstown firm are considered choice and premium U.S.D.A. grade and have been shipped as far as Texas and Colorado, according to Glen E. Massie.

Funneled Off To Markets — So that the trees will reach retail markets as fresh and perfect as they grow, all Norway, White, and Scotch Pine trees which fit into certain funnels at the plant, on the Arenzville road near here, are being bundled in Vexar—a plastic netting.

In this operation company employees are utilizing a locally "invented" and certainly a unique "machine."

The trees are put through funnels and baled in various diameters of the Vexar materials, providing added protection to the branches and making a more compact tree for hauling and handling.

Since the diameter of the trees varies with the species, varieties within a species, and cultural practices, funnels to accommodate four different sizes of netting have been designed and mounted on a modified 4 x 4 (4 wheel drive) Chevrolet with large balloon tires. This self-propelled rig is steered hydraulically and can be driven directly to the plantations where trees are bundled at once.

Inventors — The basic machine was built by Bob Edwards of Frederick for Illinois Forest Products Co. and Edward Noblitt of the firm has adapted the unit for the Christmas tree harvest.

The unit includes an air compressor for operating hydraulic clippers for trimming handles or bases on the Christmas trees; a blower with a flexible hose to "blow out" the dead needles and foreign material prior to "wrapping the trees"; one of the four funnels most adapted to the size of tree being harvested.

These trees are thus protected against limb breakage and other damage and stacking and hauling to inventory yard and retail lot.

Another inspection occurs at the inventory for grade and foot size classes, then tagging and stacking for loading onto trucks or railroad cars for final movement.

Speedier Processing — The unique design of the apparatus is the "brainchild" of Noblitt, IFP foreman and Massie, president and manager of the firm. Five hundred acres of pine timber are owned by the firm in this department.

An important part of this operation is the Greens Department in which pine roping, wreaths "swag" etc. are made. The roping is made from Norway, White, Scotch and Jack pine boughs.

Mrs. Richard Jones supervises the work in this section and says the White pine and Norway pine roping is proving the most popular this Yule season.

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 5 — Born today, you have a quick, alert mind that may at times cause you to be too sharp in your speech, for you have little patience with those who appear dull and uncomprehending. Take care, however, that you don't fall into the habit of undue criticism of others, or you may find that rather than making good friends and co-workers out of people you have instead made enemies. If you must criticize, let it be on the constructive level.

You possess a lively personality and have a gift of mirth that can be the envy of others just so long as you don't allow it to deteriorate into humor at their expense. You should be able to be the life of any gathering; for you know how to excite others as well as yourself to true merriment; whether you will use this knowledge to your advantage or not is entirely up to you, however.

Serious when the occasion calls for it, you are not one to have an upside-down set of values. Nothing annoys you more than to have others belittle what you know to be a major enterprise or to have them fail to see the importance of a project that means a great deal to you. Even so, you must learn to tolerate other people's shortcomings in this direction. To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Wednesday, December 6
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)—Deliberate carefully before you undertake any new activity. It would be easy for you to bite off more than you can chew.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20)—Call on your appreciative artistic instincts rather than your creative ones for the moment. You can encourage others.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—Use pride to your advantage. This is no time to allow false modesty to stand in your way.

PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 21)—All work and no play may cause you more in the way of setbacks than forward moves. Make a place in your schedule for relaxation.

ARIES (Mar. 22-Apr. 20)—Accept the assistance of others with grace. To refuse aid simply for the sake of being independent may be most unwise.

TAURUS (Apr. 21-May 21)—Gain the sympathy of others through your honesty rather than by exaggerating the issue. Disappointment can be surmounted.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—Be prepared to take advantage of a hidden opportunity. Eyes and ears should be attuned to waves of influence.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)—Credit yourself with enough intelligence to solve your own personal problems. At least give it a try before consulting others.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)—Don't overestimate your capacity for work. This may well be one of those times when you should take it easier than you think.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)—Take advantage of what looks like adverse circumstances and you should find that things work out better than you hoped.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)—A bit of added caution on your part should create security for your project, where there was none.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)—Stand out in the crowd. Think your own thoughts and be active in those things that suits you, rather than following others.

Fine Cass Man For Failure To File Tax Returns

A Beardstown businessman was fined $4,000 Monday in Federal District Court in Springfield for failure to file employers' quarterly tax returns.

He was identified as John M. Musgrove of Beardstown, owner and operator of the Beardstown Hardware and Appliance Store.

Musgrove was fined after pleading guilty to a five-count criminal information. He was fined $800 on each count of the charge.

The criminal information charged Musgrove with collecting more than $1,900 from his employees' withholding social security tax, and failing to file a return or pay this amount to the federal government.

In addition to the fine, Judge Omer Poos ordered Musgrove to pay the taxes plus court costs, interest and penalties.

Child Who 'Hates' Parent Is in Teens' Social Groove

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE:
Eleven years ago my sister's husband left her, and she started a dressmaking business that let her stay home with her little girl. Her life has been hard work and sacrifice. Yet two Sundays ago, her girl, now 16, told her mother she "hated" her. She had a tantrum because she was asked to join us all in a family dinner instead of dating a boy friend. Mrs. Lawrence, what's wrong with young people today, so cruel and so hard toward parents?

ANSWER: Conformity is what's wrong with them. You people must not take this kid's "hate" of her mother so seriously. It's largely synthetic—a cultural plastic. The kids' culture requires them to hate us as it commands boys to grow long hair and girls to miniskirt themselves into toddlers. If they don't hate us, they're outcast by their contemporaries. For their culture's bastardized Freudianism has convinced them that any affection for us is suicide—Dr. Freud's "castration." Thus, to like us is to forfeit all ability to relate to a member of the opposite sex—and so damn themselves to Freudian death.

That's why they exaggerate into hate the naturally envious resentment they feel at us who are managing a survival in a world they fear they can't manage themselves. Myself, I find this conforming hate of theirs tiresome. For hate, like conformity, turns people into consummate bores.

So, when told by my teenager she "hated" me (and I was so informed more than once), I said, "Well, I sure hope you get over it. For of all dreadfully monotonous feelings there are, hate is the dreariest to oblige oneself to feel all one's life."

And she did move past it. I did not refuse wounded response to these hate declarations because I'm so smart. I refused it because I knew that I had served her life as well as I could. So surely did I know this I didn't care whether she knew it or not. Though I would have appreciated her good opinion of my parenthood, I didn't need it. Her bad opinion of it could not destroy what I knew of my struggles to serve her life well.

Your sister has lost her awareness of her similar struggles. She has lost it to this kid's culture-cultivated scorn for them. So, if she wants the child to move on into a more balanced view of her, she must recover her own balanced view of herself.

They return. That is, they do if they haven't used drugs to send themselves so far into outer space that earthly gravity can't reach them. Then, indeed, they may wander psychedelic galaxies indefinitely, like so many space-weary Flying Dutchmen.

saying, "I am feeling much better."

Heart specialists say the next crucial challenge to Washkansky should come from his body's defense mechanism against foreign objects toward the week's end.

To suppress the bodily mechanism that naturally tries to destroy foreign objects—such as Miss Darvall's heart—doctors were giving Washkansky a number of drugs. One danger is that these drugs reduce a patient's ability to combat other harmful foreign objects, such as germs.

"If the heart is rejected by the patient," said one specialist, "we are at the point of no return."

apparently into the walls and ceiling of the house, but opened the door briefly at midnight to admit four relatives who tried to talk him outside.

Gentry said one of the relatives told him Ector was dozing fitfully with the guns in his hands and the keys to the doors in his pocket.

Earlier, a youthful sounding woman who would not identify herself told The Associated Press on the telephone that "everybody" in the house was asleep, including Ector.

"That's right. We know he's sleeping," said Inspector Eugene Zilkowski. "But how can we get inside. He's got the doors locked."

Of the women with Ector, whose son was one of 43 persons killed during the July racial riot, one was pregnant. One of the children was a deaf mute, neighbors said.

The only real loser seems to be the military dictatorship in Greece. The Greek government and not Makarios bowed to pressure and agreed to pull out its troops. The junta in Athens suffered a drastic loss of face among Greeks on Cyprus, and it may have trouble with the officers who return home from Cyprus.

Makarios is believed not unhappy to see the Greek troops go. And he is known to be relieved to get rid of Gen. George Grivas, the commander of all Greek forces on Cyprus and potential challenger for the archbishop's power. Grivas was blamed for the battle which touched off the crisis, and the embarrassed Greek government recalled him to Athens.

streets and the other about Water and Bridge streets.

Arrests started when some of the demonstrators began to sit in the street and in front of the center doors. Those seized were hauled away, many of them being bodily carried by police.

Some claimed they had been struck by police nightsticks when police charged their horses to break up the street group. At least one man emerged with a bloody head. He was taken to a hospital.

The center opened officially at 6 a.m., and enlistees began trickling through police lines and going inside. Pickets chanted "Don't go! Don't go!"

Spock, who earlier told reporters he came "to be with these courageous young men who are jeopardizing their freedom and future careers," said he was later "cheerfully straight-armed" by a patrolman.

Ginsberg said he offered the following poetic comment prior to his arrest:

"Pentagon, Pentagon.
"Reverse consciousness,
"Apokatastasis."

He explained the last word meant "a transformation of satanic forces into celestial."

Following the rush of mass arrests, the demonstrators seemed to subside and set up picket lines that marched uniformly to and fro chanting peace slogans.

The protest marked the second day of a week-long effort by antiwar groups aimed at disrupting local induction centers. Monday more than a score of cities around the nation saw demonstrations attended by as many as 200 and as few as 40 protesters.

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — While Congress and the administration battle to an impasse over taxes and spending, the battle of the pocketbook becomes more difficult. The ammunition in that purse just doesn't have its old firepower.

The green bill that was worth $1 in 1960 is now down to somewhere around 88 cents. The quarter, therefore, is worth about 22 cents compared with 1960. And the nickel is more for making change than for buying goods.

This is the penalty of inflation, which many analysts feel can be solved only by higher taxes or government spending cuts, or by a combination of both. But Washington is stalemated.

The result of this fiscal inactivity is that inflation may take just as much money out of the hands of people, but in a far more discriminatory and economically disruptive way. Prices will continue to rise; buying power will shrink.

Evidence of this was provided by the latest cost of living figures, which showed that in October the living costs rose three-tenths of one per cent, the ninth straight monthly advance, placing at $11.75 the price of a marketbasket of goods that cost $10 less than a decade ago.

This being so, wouldn't higher taxes simply add another burden to the consumer? For a time, perhaps, but eventually it would eliminate the tax of inflation. Currency values would become more stable.

A budget deficit means that the government has acquired goods and services that it really cannot pay for. Simply to issue a lot of paper money to pay bills serves only to dilute the value of other money. The government must eventually find real money.

That money is in the hands of consumers and business. A tax increase, then, would redistribute funds from consumer and business to government, which has run up the big bills that must be paid.

However, as the economic imbalance continues in the absence of fiscal action, the disruptions continue. Interest rates, for example, are completely out of whack.

As a result of monetary policy's basic opposition to inflation, interest rates are now sky high. Money is being made more difficult to obtain, and prospects are for more of the same.

The discount rate, which is the basic interest rate set by the Federal Reserve, already has been raised to 4.5 per cent, although admittedly devaluation of the British pound was partly responsible.

The second most basic rate, the prime rate, also has been raised in recent weeks. This means that the most credit worthy corporate customers must pay 6 per cent to borrow.

Savings banks are near their top of 5 per cent. Corporate bonds are at 6.75 per cent, and the U.S. government itself is paying 6 per cent or more to borrow.

For some potential borrowers, high interest rates eventually might mean no money at all. The threat now exists, as it did last year, that money will be withdrawn from mortgage lending agencies in search of higher rates elsewhere.

This is just one example of the dangers of inflation. What is feared even more is inflation psychology. This is illustrated by the wage-price spiral.

The spiral is really the smoke of battle as wage earners and wage payers, who have seen their slice of the pie lessened, fight for a bigger share than they had before in order to get even.

In the view of Gardner Ackley, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, this is now going on in the automotive industry, where wages have risen sharply and prices have jumped also.

Even more disturbing to Ackley seems to be the $5-a-ton increase in the price of certain steel sheet products generally used in automobiles and large household appliances.

In an inflationary atmosphere, such as exists now, it can mean even higher automobile and refrigerator prices.

Kennedy said that although he supports Johnson for re-election, he expects to continue to speak out on Vietnam policies when he believes the occasion demands it.

He said he does not intend to become involved in the primary campaign because he feels the voters of Massachusetts "are fully aware of my position on Vietnam and are perfectly capable of making their own judgments on the discussions that take place."

Kennedy is in line to head the Massachusetts delegation to the Democratic National Convention in Chicago if House Speaker cepts for Wednesday are 8,000 cattle, 6,000 hogs and 500 sheep, not to take the chairmanship.

Johnson also was asked whether he was considering asking Congress for emergency wage and price controls as an alternative to his beleaguered proposal for a 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

"No such proposals are under consideration at this time," he replied. Then he added: "I say, nothing at this time."

Cong

buildup of North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops in the past few months. U.S. and South Vietnamese forces have had two big battles this month with Communist troops at Loc Ninh and Bu Dop, southwest of Dak Song and also near the Cambodian border.

Wilson said it had not been determined yet from intelligence sources what was behind the attack. But the Viet Cong often raid villages to show that the South Vietnamese government cannot provide complete protection.

Dak Song is a "new life" hamlet, which supposedly is sufficiently protected to be free of Viet Cong terrorism.

In the air war, the U.S. Navy strengthened its arsenal of bombers striking at North Vietnam and sent a new light attack jet into action Monday for the first time.

The craft is the A7 Corsair II, which can carry 15,000 pounds of explosives while maintaining speeds of nearly 600 miles an hour. U.S. headquarters said the jets made their first combat runs against a bridge near Vinh, about 150 miles south of Hanoi. The Corsairs' 5-inch rockets heavily damaged the span, pilots returning to the carrier Ranger reported. One squadron of about 20 of the $1.4 million jets is aboard the carrier.

The U.S. 7th Air Force will soon add the plane to its strike force also. The Corsair was first ordered in 1964 as a replacement for the A4 Skyhawk to provide a subsonic plane which could carry a heavier load of weapons than the Skyhawk.

Overcast weather from the northeast monsoons again limited most of the 80 U.S. missions Monday to areas south of Hanoi, but radar guided Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs to at least three targets above North Vietnam's capital city.

Their targets were the Thai Nguyen railroad yards 35 miles north of Hanoi, the Yen Bai airfield and storage area 78 miles northwest of Hanoi, and surface-to-air missile sites 24 and 37 miles to the north. There was no damage assessment because of the overcast.

The same overcast conditions prevented damage reports from U.S. Marine all-weather A6 Intruders after they raided the Kien An airfield six miles southwest of Haiphong. Pilots reported touching off a secondary explosion in intruder strikes at the Nam Dinh railroad yard 50 miles south of Hanoi.

In the ground war, U.S. and South Vietnamese troops mopped up along a Mekong Delta canal where they wiped out almost half a Viet Cong battalion Monday in the biggest battle in the delta so far this year.

The total of Viet Cong killed rose to 235 as more enemy bodies were discovered today. The U.S. Command said this exceeded by 24 the previous record total for a 24-hour period in the delta.

Two Viet Cong were killed by Vietnamese Marines in a brief skirmish, but no significant contact was reported.

The number of U.S. dead and wounded in the combined attack Monday also were revised upward. Spokesmen said 13 Americans were killed and 136 wounded. South Vietnamese Marines, the U.S. headquarters said killed more than half the guerrillas, reported 15 of their men killed and 31 wounded.

Indicating increasing U.S. activity in the delta, the U.S. Command is reported preparing to name Maj. Gen. William R. Peers of Stuart, Iowa, senior American adviser in the sector. Peers is the U.S. 4th Division commander who directed the troops that routed the North Vietnamese from the hills around Dak To last month.

These other terrorist incidents also were reported: Viet Cong guerrillas opened up with small arms fire on a South Vietnamese bus traveling on Highway 4 in the delta Monday, killing one civilian and wounding six others. Guerrillas mined another bus in the Delta 96 miles southwest of Saigon Monday, killing six children and wounding six.

Six military dependents were wounded when guerrillas fired 15 mortar rounds into the rear base of a South Vietnamese infantry regiment 102 miles west-southwest of Saigon. Military casualties were light. South Vietnamese headquarters said.

Johnston

Johnston began with IC railroad in 1918 as an accountant. Prior to election as president in 1946, he held positions in the operating and traffic departments.

In 1963, when the IC Industries was established, he became president of that corporation. He became chairman of both companies in 1966 and remained a director of both after his retirement.

Johnston, whose career in railroading spanned nearly five decades, served in many capacities with national, regional and state railroad associations. Also he was a director of Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co., Milwaukee.

In 1967 Johnston was elected president of the Board of Trustees of the University of Illinois. He was graduated from Illinois in 1919. He was a trustee of the University for 17 years. Also, he served for 19 years as a trustee of DePaul University, Green-castle, Ind.

During a 44-year association with the Boy Scouts of America, Johnston had been active in the Chicago Council, of which he was past president, and as an executive of several national Boy Scout councils.

Survivors include a son, Wayne A. Johnston Jr., and a daughter, Mrs. Bryce C. Boothby.

Funeral service plans are incomplete.

CORN IRREGULAR, BEANS, WHEAT WEAK

CHICAGO (AP) — Soybeans and wheat futures were weak today on the Chicago Board of Trade. Corn was irregular.

Trade was only at a moderate pace, and prices moved over a relatively narrow range. Corn futures showed some early strength while soybeans and wheat were irregular. But a wave of liquidation later weakened corn prices.

There was some early buying of wheat by brokers with export connections. Commercial interests and local professionals were the big sellers.

Some large local professionals sold the deferred soybeans against commission house and commercial buying. Some weakness in soybeans was also attributed to an easiness in soybean meal. Soybean oil, however, showed some strength.

Wheat was ¼ to ¾ cent a bushel lower, December 1.44½; corn was ¼ lower to ½ higher, December 1.13½; oats were unchanged to ¼ lower, December 71½; cents; rye was ¼ lower to ½ higher, December 1.12½ and soybeans were ¼ to ¾ lower, January 2.65½.

Top Steelmaker Announces Hike Of Base Prices

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP) — Bethlehem Steel Corp., following the lead of the nation's No. 1 steelmaker, Monday rejected government pleas to hold the price line and hiked the base price of cold rolled sheets used in autos and appliances by $5 a net ton, effective Dec. 15.

U.S. Steel Corp. had raised the price first last Friday, a move criticized by Gardner Ackley, chairman of the president's Council of Economic Advisers.

Now that Bethlehem, the nation's second largest steel producer, has increased, it is expected that other firms will quickly follow suit.

Bethlehem said the increase "is less than one half of one per cent of total billings."

The announcement said Bethlehem found it had to raise prices because efforts to reduce operating costs and improve production efficiency through new facilities hadn't been enough to offset the increased expenses.

If other producers follow the lead of the "Big Two" the industry—in piecemeal fashion—will have hiked prices this year on steel products that account for 62 per cent of their total shipments.

Bethlehem went slightly further than U.S. Steel, raising prices on some hot rolled sheets $1 to $8 a ton, and cutting it on others $1 and $2. These changes, too, are effective Dec. 15.

Ackley has urged other steel producers to stay off the price increase wagon.

"Costs and prices are already too high, not too low," said Ackley. He added that 1968 promises to be a better year for steel profits, acknowledging that in 1967 net income has dropped considerably—better than 30 per cent for the bigger companies in the first 10 months.

Thousands File Past Bier Of Spellman

Past Bier Of Spellman

NEW YORK (AP) — New York City continued to pay its last respects to Francis Cardinal Spellman in an uninterrupted display of devotion. At times as many as 3,600 persons an hour filed past the black-draped catafalque Monday.

St. Patrick's Cathedral, where the prelate lay in state clad in the rich and colorful robes of his office, was open round-the-clock.

A policeman on duty at the church during the early morning said, "There aren't as many people around at 2 a.m. but one thing is amazing: They never stop coming."

Cardinal Spellman died Saturday at the age of 78. He had been spiritual leader of the two million Catholics in the New York archdiocese since May 1939.

Occasionally, memorial Masses were said during the day. One of them was attended by hundreds of children from the 443 archdiocesan schools.

Funeral services will be held at 1 p.m. Thursday. The six cardinals currently in the United States will celebrate a high pontifical requiem Mass and then the cardinal will be buried in a crypt below St. Patrick's high altar.

Pope Paul VI will select Cardinal Spellman's successor. There was no indication when the appointment would be made.

Draft As Penalty For Protesting

Draft As Penalty For Protesting

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, a possible contender for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination, made his fellowship debut at Yale University Monday and said he opposed using the Selective Service to punish draft resisters.

Beginning his four-day Chubb Fellowship with a news conference, Reagan invited questions and was asked what he thought of selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey's proposal to conscript young men who object to the draft.

"Emotionally, I could go along with General Hersey," Reagan said, "and I can understand how he feels. But rationally, intellectually, I can't go along with using the draft to punish people."

He made it clear, however, that he regarded civil disobedience by anti-war demonstrators as something which "can not be justified" and "should not be tolerated."

The governor was the target of a petition circulated by Robert Hanson, a junior at Yale.

The petition, although welcoming the opportunity for students to "question and challenge" Reagan, was critical of the governor's positions on Vietnam, open housing legislation, academic freedom, anti-poverty programs and California's mental health programs.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—A strong stock market rally advanced through a tough area of resistance in heavy trading late this afternoon.

Volume for the first four hours was 9.34 million shares compared with 8.36 million Monday.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 7.39 to 890.89.

The Dow industrials penetrated the 885-890 zone which shorted last week's rally. Whether the average would hold the gain to the close was the question.

Further fuel to bullish sentiment was added when Arco followed Bethlehem and U.S. Steel in raising prices for cold rolled sheets.

Arco and Bethlehem were up about a point, U.S. Steel traded about unchanged and other major steelmakers showed fractional gains.

Nuisances Most Men Could Do Without

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)— Things the average man could do without in a world that is sometimes too much with him:

Mink cufflinks.
Pajamas for dogs.
Private telephones for teenagers.

Neighbors who build spite fences.

Weird cocktail canapes intended to serve more as conversational tidbits than as appetizers—such as fried Mexican worms or peacock liver paste.

All-purpose credit cards that can be used to rent a yacht or to take a vacation on the Riviera but are no good at all when it comes time to make a home mortgage payment.

Permissive nursery schools that get a child so stirred up that he comes home like a howling Apache on a bender.

Girls in miniskirts who wear butterfly decals above their knees.

Doctors who try subtly to imply that they are up-to-date in all things, including medicine, by keeping copies of Playboy magazine in the waiting room instead of the National Geographic.

Any breakfast food that can be heard two paces away while being eaten—whether it crackles, pops, snaps, or simply fizzes.

Middle-aged ladies on buses who smash into you with a handbag the size of a suitcase and then turn and glare at you as if you were either a masher or a pickpocket.

Guys who sit behind you at pro football contests and try to explain the game to their girl friends.

Mothers who sit behind you at foreign movies and read the English subtitles aloud to their children.

All politicians who think they automatically become statesmen at the age of 65.

Wiseacres who, when you have a black eye, ask you to explain how you got it and then when you have done so, reply, "Well, that ain't the way I heard it."

All modernistic paintings that look either like a colony of ants lost in a snowstorm or a cross-section of the bloodstream of an armadillo.

Any cake that doesn't have chocolate icing on it.

Talking parakeets which, despite the proud claims of their owners, have an actual vocabulary that consists only of "eek," "peep" and 27 varieties of twitters.

Stock market salesmen who start their pitch by saying, "I know you'll want to get in on the ground floor of this one."

All girl go-go dancers, leather-jacketed motorcycle riders, long-haired musical groups that imitate the Beatles, television comedians who make a living by ridiculing their mother-in-law, and all dull people who wear cat sunglasses in restaurants in the fond hope they will be mistaken for someone of importance.

From these and other nuisances, deliver the common man. Amen. Enough is enough.

AP Movie-Television Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP)— With the gift-book season at hand, the show-business buff faces a bountiful harvest.

The shelves of the Pickwick Book Store, Hollywood's biggest, are laden with handsome new show-biz volumes, especially those that take a nostalgic view of the movies' past.

"The movies are beginning to build up a history," observes Louis Epstein, Pickwick owner and board chairman of the American Booksellers Association. "Many of the books are selling very well; a surprising success has been the one about Laurel and Hardy."

"It's the general public, not just the movie crowd, who are buying these books. It has always distressed me that the movie people have never cared much about film history. Theatrical people seem to buy everything about the theater. Not the movie bunch. They seem only to care about making money."

Here are some of the new offerings for the Christmas trade: "The Great Films" by Bosley Crowther, Putnam, $10. The New York Times critic, who will quit daily reviewing Jan. 1 after 27 years, takes a fond view of the movies he has liked best.

Nuisances Most Men Could Do Without

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Things the average man could do without in a world that is sometimes too much with him:

Mink cufflinks.
Pajamas for dogs.
Private telephones for teenagers.

Neighbors who build spite fences.

Weird cocktail canapes intended to serve more as conversational tidbits than as appetizers—such as fried Mexican worms or peacock liver paste.

All-purpose credit cards that can be used to rent a yacht or to take a vacation on the Riviera but are no good at all when it comes time to make a home mortgage payment.

Permissive nursery schools that get a child so stirred up that he comes home like a howling Apache on a bender.

Girls in miniskirts who wear butterfly decals above their knees.

Doctors who try subtly to imply that they are up-to-date in all things, including medicine, by keeping copies of Playboy magazine in the waiting room instead of the National Geographic.

Middle-aged ladies on buses who smash into you with a handbag the size of a suitcase and then turn and glare at you as if you were either a masher or a pickpocket.

Guys who sit behind you at pro football contests and try to explain the game to their girl friends.

Mothers who sit behind you at foreign movies and read the English subtitles aloud to their children.

All politicians who think they automatically become statesmen at the age of 65.

Wiseacres who, when you have a black eye, ask you to explain how you got it and then, when you have done so, reply, "Well, that ain't the way I heard it."

All modernistic paintings that look either like a colony of ants lost in a snowstorm or a cross-section of the bloodstream of an armadillo.

Any cake that doesn't have chocolate icing on it.

Talking parakeets which, despite the proud claims of their owners, have an actual vocabulary that consists only of "eek," "peep" and 27 varieties of twitters.

Stock market salesmen who start their pitch by saying, "I know you'll want to get in on the ground floor of this one."

All girl go-go dancers, leather-jacketed motorcycle riders, long-haired musical groups that imitate the Beatles, television comedians who make a living by ridiculing their mother-in-law, and all dull people who wear "cat" sunglasses in restaurants in the fond hope they will be mistaken for someone of importance.

From these and other nuisances, deliver the common man. Amen. Enough is enough.

Polly's Pointers

Marks From Gummed Tape Mar Kitchen Cupboards

By POLLY CRAMER
Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — Whenever I remove shelf paper from my kitchen cupboards there are ugly marks left from the plastic ing the length of a heavy coat ing will come down over the it in place. Is there a better way to to secure the shelf paper to enameled cupboards or is there a simple solution for removing

DEAR GIRLS — After changing the length of a heavy coat ing will come down over the
it in place. Is there a better way to though not a single stitch came through to the top of the fabric.

To prevent this, pin the hem to the desired length, cut off to make it even but do not put seam binding on the edge. If the material would ravel badly, overcast the edges loosely.
Place a row of pins about one-inch from the edge and through both thicknesses of fabric. Turn the loose end back as you sew and catch the underneath threads of outside of coat to inside threads of hem with hand stitching. When the hem is in there will be a loose inch-wide flap at the top of the hem which will be pressed down flat with the rest of the hem and the lining will come down over the raw edge. I find heavy dresses and skirts also look much better when hemmed this way as there is no hint of the depth of the hem on the outside of the garment.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY — When small children need a writing surface cut the top and bottom off a large-sized white plastic bleach bottle. Cut the cylinder open and press flat with a warm iron.
Of course, you must cover the plastic with a cloth as you press it. My children use nylon pointed pens to write on their individual slates and the writing is easily rinsed off so they can start again.

When my hair grew long enough to make a roll in the back, it still looked untidy as the short ends would sag. I very firmly braided together three nylon hose and cut a length of this to fit across the back of my head. It was tied together with a thread and hairpins put through the ends to anchor the braid in place. I covered the braid with my own hair so it was very neat-looking and most satisfactory. A few extra hairpins kept the loose ends from straying.—TRINA

More Cues Than In Pool Hall

By Oswald and James Jacoby
In the first days of contract there were no forcing bids at all. If someone picked up today's South hand in those times, he would probably jump right to six spades over East's club opening. Or maybe he would settle for game only.

As dealer he would have a similar problem. Then a combination of Ted Lightner, Wal-demar von Zedtwitz and Oswald Jacoby invented the forcing two bid and we had a way to handle the South hand as the opening bidder. It wasn't long thereafter when someone thought of bidding your opponent's suit to show that same type of big hand, and the cue bid of the opponent's opening was a second game force.

South's two-club bid didn't quite mean that. About 10 years ago the late Mike Michaels invented the Michaels cue bid. He used the cue bid to show some sort of very distributional hand.
Today most experts have followed along, although they use the weakish cue bid over a minor to show both majors.

South was playing that convention but still bid two clubs over the one-club opening. North responded two hearts. He wasn't happy about his chances of getting anywhere because, as far as he knew, his partner had a fairly weak hand.

South didn't have that weak hand. He had the old-fashioned rock crusher cue bid. He might have jumped right to six hearts but South was willing to try for the grand slam. He bid three clubs as a repeat for his initial cue bid.

North perked up. The first cue bid might have shown a poorish two suiter. The second said,
"Hold everything. I have a real hand."

North still couldn't be sure if his partner really held no clubs, but North did hold the ace of clubs and saw no reason not to show it.

He bid four clubs. South knew that this was a real clue bid and this left South with no further problems. He closed the bidding at seven hearts.

UNITAS' STORY WORTH RECALL

Some of the greatest sports stories of all time are those which include early rejection, determination, hard work and eventual success.

There seems to be that intangible element in athletics that often makes early failures into later heroes. We're speaking of those athletes who came to play, believed in themselves, and refused to quit. A good number of such athletes are those who today command the headlines.

PERHAPS the best example today is 'Mr. Quarterback' Johnny Unitas of the Baltimore Colts. Unitas' much-written about past reads like a rags to riches novel that has allowed its star character to become a legend in his own time.

Johnny U., as you know, made the big time the hard way minus the headlines, the big build-ups and the big bonuses. As a matter of fact, he almost didn't make it at all.

At the University of Louisville his school won a total of 12 games in four years, and with Unitas making little noise on the collegiate football scene. His team lost by such scores as 59-0, 59-6 and 44-6, and Unitas isn't even on the all-time Louisville team as selected by his alma mater.

TAKING a job as a 'high man' on a pile-driving crew after graduation in 1955, Unitas was picked in the ninth round by Pittsburgh in the 1955 NFL draft, but was released prior to the season. Determined to play professional football, Unitas joined the semi-pro Bloomfield Rams for the season.

The following season Unitas talked Baltimore into investing a dime in a phone call and signed as a free agent. The first series he ran the club he fumbled three times and threw an interception, enough to make many men toss in the towel.

Unitas did not. That same year Unitas completed 110 of 198 passes for 1,498 yards and one of sport's most amazing stories was underway. The rest is history.

BEFORE the start of this year, Unitas, who has missed only one Pro-Bowl team since 1957, has established the NFL career record for yards gained passing with 29,593; touchdown passes with 232; consecutive games throwing TD passes with 47 and owns the NFL championship game record for most yards passing. He has been named the NFL Player of the Year twice and has guided the Colts to three Divisional titles. Baltimore is the only undefeated team in professional football this year and Unitas is the reason why.

Unitas' story is one which should provide encouragement for any athlete or prospective athlete who has tried and failed and still wants to make good. He has risen from a $6 a game semi-pro quarterback to become the best at his business, and a tough business it is.

File this one away under the heading of coming news: The Los Angeles Rams are dickering with the Minnesota Vikings for the rights to their No. 1 choice in the pro football draft (meaning UCLA's Gary Beban), giving up reserve quarterback Bill Munson in exchange.

The best football trade of this year has to be one which sent Lance Rentzel from the Minnesota Vikings to the Dallas Cowboys for a draft choice. Rentzel has caught more passes than all-pro mate Bob Hayes and ranks third in the NFL. At Minnesota, they said he didn't have good hands.

The new Madison Square Garden has only two bowlers in its permanent Hall of Fame. They're Don Carter and Billy Gombiewicz, winners of the only two bowling tournaments held in the old Garden in the late 1950s. Now the new Garden kicks off its program of top sports events with the National Championships of the Professional Bowlers Association, and Carter's presence adds a nostalgic note. He was responsible for the formation of the PBA when he appeared on a local television interview in Akron, Ohio, with Eddie Elias and noted that bowlers had no organization comparable to the PGA in golf. Presto—Elias put his organizational genius to work and gathered the top 33 bowlers of the world together, under Carter's stimulus, into the thriving PBA.

When the bowling tour was over, Vince Costello of the New York Giants is another guy who's been around a long time. He spent the first 10 years of his career with Cleveland. When Modzelewski joined the Browns from New York, the two old-timers had a friendly verbal feud about life in the Big City vs. Bucolic Ohio. "Mo," finally asked Vince one day, "would you say an IQ of 100 is pretty good?" "Yeah," grunted Mo. "For the whole city of New York?" Vince grinned slyly.

The rookie of the year in the American Football League, or any league, has to be George Webster, the outside linebacker of the Houston Oilers. The Oilers have risen to a contending position after four "down" years on defense, and Webster's the big reason.

Between you'n'me, San Diego has to be a lousy sports town when the Chargers pull in fewer than 35,000 people for a home game on a sunny Sunday (against Denver) at a time they're fighting Oakland for the division title and both teams have the best records in the AFL. They no longer have an excuse of lousy stadium

H. Wismer Of NFL Fame Dies At 53

NEW YORK (AP) — Harry Wismer, who lived a stormy life in both the National and American Football Leagues, died Monday from an undisclosed ailment at the age of 53.

Wismer, at one time a nationally-known sports announcer, feuded fiercely with George Preston Marshall, owner of the NFL Washington Redskins, and then carried his controversial ways into the American League, which he helped found in 1959. Meeting with five other owners in Chicago in 1959, Wismer began his tenure as head of the New York Titans peacefully enough.

He even helped formulate a revolutionary television plan by which the league would negotiate one TV contract and all of the teams would share equally in the revenue.

The first contract, with the American Broadcasting Co., brought the AFL $1,785,000 the first year. Today the league has a five-year contract with the National Broadcasting Co. worth $36 million.

Wismer was not finished with pro football, however.

In January, 1967, he told of an agreement between him and Mrs. Catherine Marshall Price that would make Wismer president of the Redskins if Mrs. Price were to regain control of the stock owned by her ailing father, George Preston Marshall.

The agreement also supposedly included Marshall's son, George Jr., but the son later denied that any such agreement existed.

Wismer was a minority stockholder in the Redskins in the 1950s. As such, he feuded with Marshall, accusing him of refusing to sign Negro players.

In 1957 he filed a $500,000 suit against Marshall, charging the owner had diverted Redskins funds to his personal use. The suit later was dismissed.

Before becoming involved with the Redskins, Wismer had an interest in the Detroit Lions, also of the NFL. In fact it was just three years ago that Wismer settled a $280,000 claim to 1,120 shares of Lion stock.

The stock had been owned by his former father-in-law, Edgar Bryant, but Wismer contended Bryant had purchased it in 1948 in his behalf.

Santana Leads Spanish Team Into Davis Cup

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — For the second time in three years, the veteran Manuel Santana will lead Spain's tennis team against Australia in the Davis Cup Challenge Round.

The quick, gifted Spaniard needed only 21 minutes Monday in winning the decisive set from Cliff Drysdale of South Africa in a postponed final singles match that gave Spain a 3-2 Inter-Zone victory.

The score was 6-3, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2. The match had been postponed because of a rain storm Saturday with the two teams deadlocked 2-2 and Santana leading two sets to one.

The Challenge Round is scheduled Dec. 26-28 in Brisbane, Australia, with the Aussies heavily favored to retain the trophy they have won seven times in the last eight years—the last three in a row.

Santana and his mates were beaten 4-1 in 1965 at Sydney. The Spanish ace, almost unbeatable on clay, figured in all three of his team's points, beating Ray Moore in the first round singles and teaming with Luis Arilla for a doubles triumph over Drysdale and Moore. South Africa's two victories were scored in singles, Drysdale and Moore both beating the No. 2 Spaniard, Manuel Orantes.

South Africa had the disadvantage of playing without Australian-born Bob Hewitt, who injured his ankle against India in Barcelona a few weeks earlier.

Resuming the postponed match against Drysdale, a tall, smooth-stroking international player, Santana applied immediate pressure, cracking Drysdale's service in the first game.

Drysdale attacked strongly with his two-fisted backhand but Santana, poised and composed, met the challenge with smooth ground strokes and almost flawless play at the net.

BO' WININGER CRITICAL

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Francis "Bo" Winger, former Oklahoma amateur golf champion and veteran touring professional, was reported in critical condition in a hospital Monday.

Winger, 45, took a turn for the worse, a spokesman said. Winger had been listed in serious condition since he was admitted to the hospital Thursday suffering a stroke while visiting his family.

Charlie Ravenel scored 17 touchdowns and 6 extra points for 108 tallies in his three varsity football seasons at Harvard. 1955-56.

HAYES TO MISS GAME

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Bob Hayes, star split end of the Dallas Cowboys, will definitely miss Sunday's game here against Philadelphia, club physicians said Monday.

Hayes pulled up lame on Dallas' last offensive effort Sunday, as the Cowboys lost 23-17 to Baltimore. Hayes' injury was described as a pulled muscle in the hamstring area of his right thigh.

Yale's Dan Regel made 37 straight extra points before he missed one in the 44-22 victory over Pennsylvania

Alabama's Dorm Best Recruiter

By HOYT HARWELL
Associated Press Writer
TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Alabama's football players are hard and tough on the field but when they enter their plush dormitory, they go soft and easy.

If they didn't, Paul W. Bryant Hall wouldn't look as good now as when it opened in September of 1963.

It took a special act of the Alabama Legislature for the athletic dormitory to be named for coach Bear Bryant since state-financed buildings in Alabama are not normally named for living persons.

"The players take as much pride in the dorm as they do in their football—that's why it looks as good now as when it opened," says Bryant Hall manager Gary White.

"The fact that the dorm itself is unique probably adds to this, along with the fact that it's named for coach Bryant," White says. "The respect they have for him probably carries over to the building named after him."

Bryant Hall occupies a prominent place on campus. A fountain in front squirts water high into the air.

The three-story building is centrally heated and air conditioned. All the players' rooms are carpeted. They include built-in furniture, two beds, study desks, two closets, lavatory and two chests of drawers.

The second floor contains two study rooms and a library. "Italian Provincial"

On the first floor are two dining rooms, four guest rooms, a television room, a ladies' lounge and the main lobby which, along with the dining rooms, is in Italian Provincial.

Each guest room has a small color television and there is a large color set in the TV room. The wallpaper design in that room is a stock certificate replica.

When the 130 players, football and basketball, enter the dining rooms, they know they will eat well. Special diets keep them strong, healthy and lean, just as the Bear likes his players.

Married players move into the dorm a week before the first game and live there Monday through Thursday during the football season.

After the Saturday game, they are given the rest of the weekend with their wives and then it's back to the wall to wall carpeting Sunday night.

One of the married players, senior fullback Kenny Martin of Hemet, Calif., says that "living here in a place like this, the athletes take more pride. The fellows get along better, and that makes for better team spirit. I feel pretty privileged just to eat here."

The team's ace quarterback Kenny (Snake) Stabler, knows both sides of the street. He had to move out of the $1 million hall when Bryant suspended him last spring for "nonconformity."

Stabler made amends and moved back in before the season began.

Appreciated
"You have to live somewhere else to appreciate the difference," he says. "The other dorm wasn't nearly as nice. The floors weren't carpeted—the rooms weren't anything like ours."

"The dorm has got to be one of the biggest recruiters. I came to Alabama because I wanted to play for coach Bryant, but the dorm helped. It sells boys. You can't live any finer."

A freshman quarterback from Greenville, Tenn., Benny Rippe-toe, says he "couldn't believe it at first. I was really impressed with the lobby and trophy cases. I didn't see anything like that anywhere else."

With three national championships in the 1960s and more post-season bowl teams than any school in the nation, Alabama has plenty of trophies.

When Mike Stewart of the school's publicity department came to Alabama he stayed in a guest room two weeks until he found a place to live.

"I can honestly say I have never stayed in any place so plush," Stewart says. "I hated to leave. In fact, I threatened to barricade the room and force them to move me out."

"This is not what you would normally think an athletic dorm would be like. You have to see it to believe it."

That's one reason it's there—so prospective players can see it, decide to play for Bryant and live in Paul W. Bryant Hall.

Sayers Can Go In Mud Or Snow

CHICAGO (AP)—Like a post-man, through rain, sleet and snow Gale Sayers delivers.

The Chicago Bears' sensational running back can go with any footing. But he takes to the mud probably better than any other runner in National Football League history.

Two years ago on a sticky Wrigley Field in Chicago, Sayers scored six touchdowns against the San Francisco 49ers. Earlier this season he rushed for his season high of 142 yards in sloppy footing against Detroit.

In the mire of San Francisco's Kezar Stadium Sunday he scored three times and set up another score on breakaways, all but one on kick returns.

He ran back the opening kickoff 97 yards for a touchdown, giving him a career total of six such feats to tie Ollie Matson's career record. Matson accomplished it in seven seasons. Sayers has been at it less than three.

It was Sayers' third kickoff touchdown runback of the season, tying another record shared by three others.

Other teams have quit kicking the ball anywhere near Sayers, so he was surprised when Sunday's opening kickoff by Tommy Davis sailed into his arms on the Bears' three.

Waiting Wedge
"Twenty yards in front of me was our wedge of Dick Butkus, Ralph Kurek, George Seals and Don Croftcheck," said Sayers. "They held until I'm five to seven yards behind them. Then Dick, who is captain of the wedge, yells 'Go!' And I go. 'That wedge really mows them over to spring me.'"

Butkus said that timing is important. "We'll take two steps before we bop the wedge, and once we bop it, and the timing is right, Gale's gone."

As for his talent of running in the mud, Gale explains that it comes from his heels. "I cut on my heels and that helps me keep my footing in the mud," he said. "Most backs cut on the balls of their feet."

"I also have good peripheral vision — a lot of athletes do. Some have it more than others. I can take in the whole field of vision — I can see everybody who's coming at me. And if a man is behind or close to me, I feel him. I don't have to see him. It's like an extra sense."

That's one reason it's there—so prospective players can see it, decide to play for Bryant and live in Paul W. Bryant Hall.

Jesse Owens can remember a time when he and Ralph Metcalfe, another Olympic sprinter, couldn't get a room above the third floor at the Hotel Paramount in mid-Manhattan, and they had to use a freight elevator. He also recalls that he wasn't able to buy a sandwich anywhere in Gary, Ind.

"And now," he says, "Gary has a Negro mayor."

Jesse spoke up because he doesn't agree with the boycott of the Olympic games apparently endorsed at a black youth conference in Los Angeles by such prominent athletes as Tommie Smith, Lee Evans and Lew Alcindor. The boycott was announced by Harry Edwards, a sociology professor at San Jose State and a former athlete.

Jesse Owens is 54 years old and hasn't run a 100-yard dash since he was timed in 9.7 at an exhibition in the Philippines — when he was 43 years old. He has four grandchildren and has had pneumonia three times, plus lacerated disks in his back, and has been ordered to cut down on his speaking engagements to 100 a year. He has also been in trouble with the income tax people.

But Jesse is vibrant when it comes to talking about what it is to be an American, not a Negro or even a white American.

He revealed to Jesse Owens that he is first a "n" being, means to be an American, not a Negro or even a white American.

"To live in an Olympic village," he notes, "with all the athletes of the world is a baptism, a cleansing of the soul."

Boston's Bucyk Top NHL Scorer

NEW YORK (AP) — Veteran Johnny Bucyk of the Boston Bruins, with help from linemates Johnny McKenzie and Fred Stanfield, has wrested the National Hockey League's individual scoring lead from Chicago's Bobby Hull, the latest statistics disclosed Monday.

Bucyk collected seven points in last week's games, giving him 31 points for the season. Hull, the goal-scoring leader with 19, dropped into a second place tie in the points race with McKenzie and Stanfield, each with 30 points. Hull managed only one goal and two assists last week.

Bucyk, a left winger, is the first Boston player since Bronco Horvath in the 1959-60 campaign to lead NHL in scoring. Last week, Bucyk set Bruins' career records in goals with 243 and points, 607.

Don Awrey, a Boston defenseman, is the circuit's leader in penalty minutes with 81.

LYLES QUESTION MARK
BALTIMORE (AP) — Defensive back Lenny Lyles remained a question mark and split end Alex Hawkins was classified as a probable starter Monday as the unbeaten Baltimore Colts looked ahead to Sunday's football game with the New Orleans Saints.

Lyles received a severely sprained right ankle and Hawkins a depressed fracture of the right cheekbone last Sunday as Baltimore edged by the Dallas Cowboys 23-17.

"We went and competed and we conquered and through that, many good things have happened," says Owens. "I think these boys can do more by competing than by staying at home. I feel their deeds on the field of competition reflect greatly on the community in which they live."

Because the men who have spoken out against the boycott tend to be the older men whose accomplishments are behind them, Owens is aware he may be labeled an Uncle Tom.

COMMISSIONER F. BYRON SMITH started his new term of office Monday following ceremonies at the courthouse.

Magistrate Paul Fenstermaker, left, is shown administering the oath of office to Smith, on right, who began his fourth three-year term. Smith was elected at the general election in November.

Commissioner Chester Thomasen was elected chairman of the board during a reorganization meeting later. Thomasen is serving his third year of a three-year term and traditionally becomes chairman of the three-member board. The other member of the board is Commissioner Harry Thompson.

FIRE IN MAC DORM DAMAGES MATTRESS

Fire, which was apparently caused by a cigarette, caused an estimated $50 in damage to bedding and covering in a first floor room of a MacMurray college woman's dormitory about five o'clock Monday evening.

City firemen said they were notified of the fire in room 181 of Harker Hall on South Clay avenue at 5:10 p.m.

Sources at the department said that the mattress was destroyed and several covers on the bed damaged by the fire.

A smoke ejector was used to clear the building.

ILLINOIS CHILI

1 pound ground beef
1 large onion, finely chopped (1 cup)
2 Garlic cloves, minced

1 can (1 pound) tomatoes, undiluted
1 can (6 ounces) tomato paste, undiluted
1 can (1 pound) red kidney beans, undrained
2 teaspoons salt
10 twists (1/2 teaspoon) freshly ground pepper
2 tablespoons chili powder

Heat a wide saucepan (about 3 quarts) and in it over moderately low heat cook the beef and onion, using a fork to crumble the meat into small particles, until the beef loses its red color. (If beef is very lean, you may need to add a tablespoon or so of fat; but if grease accumulates after cooking beef and onion, drain it all off.) Add the remaining ingredients. Simmer for at least 20 minutes, stirring several times breaking up tomatoes. This makes a hot chili; if you want it even hotter, add chili powder to taste and simmer 5 or 10 minutes longer to blend flavors. Makes 6 servings. Nice served in rimmed soup plates.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Backward Tipped Womb Can Cause Backache

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.

Q — My sister had a complete hysterectomy 28 years ago. Last month she started to menstruate. Her doctor says it is nothing to worry about and that it will stop of its own accord. Where does the blood come from after all these years?

A — Since the uterus has been removed, the bleeding must be from adjacent tissues. It is important to find the source of the bleeding and check it promptly.

Q — I am a housewife, 37. What side effects will occur if my uterus is removed?

CASS FAMILY TO SPEND HOLIDAYS WITH SON IN NAVY

BEARDSTOWN — Mr. and Mrs. Hody Ashcraft are planning a pre-Christmas reunion in California with their son Mike, who is in the navy serving on the big aircraft carrier Enterprise. The Ashcrafts plan to "fly out" about Dec. 22.

A close friend and neighbor of Ashcraft, Gail Patterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Patterson, 1101 E. 7th street, has arrived in Vietnam where his duty is in photography. His parents have been hearing from him regularly.

Beardstown Notes
Beardstown television viewers continue to get a kick out of seeing a former local gal in frequent national commercials these days. She is the ex-Fredie Weber whose husband is also in show business in New York. Although Freddie is now a proud mamma she remains in demand for a diversified "menu" of TV shots to which she now seems to be devoting most of her emoting. One of her latest accounts is Helman's Spinblend.

Dan McCausland, former head man in the meat department for the Meyer Supers, is now in charge of the same kind of endeavor for the IGA people in Virginia. He is commuting.

From the Beardstown Illinoisian a century ago:
"The editor of that measly little sheet the Courier, printed not more than 100 miles east of here, is just about bright enough to set up a peanut stand at a funeral, or jump into the river to get out of the rain."

John Glenn, in the sales de-

A — You will no longer menstruate. If your ovaries are not removed there will be no "side effects." If they are removed at the same time you will have what is known as a surgical menopause. The attending symptoms can be prevented by giving you carefully regulated doses of female hormone.

Q — If my womb is tipped backward would that cause backache or headache? Would my menstrual periods be irregular?

A — This may be a cause of a backache that is worse during menstruation. It is not a direct cause of headache. In rare cases it may cause painful menstrual periods but would not cause irregularity.

Q — I have been taking Valium and Donnalate for 14 months. Is it harmful to take them for so long?

A — Diazepam (Valium) is one of the minor tranquilizers. It should be taken by anyone who has glaucoma or who is pregnant. Its side effects include drowsiness, dizziness, fatigue, blurred vision, nausea partment for the Dennis Chicken people, is "on the go" continuously, traveling far and wide by air, but usually gets back to the home town every other weekend. He's never lost his interest in or his love for Beardstown.

Teen Hedrick, who has worked for other owners and for herself on numerous occasions during her years in the restaurant business, opened the old Mile 88 Cafe on 4th street Dec. 1 under the new name of the Hedrick Cafe. It is located at 604 E. 4th street.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth (Babe) Givens have sold their home at 614 Edwards street to a newly arrived Oscar Mayer & Company worker and will be living in Naples where they have a trailer and a cabin on two lots. Mrs. Givens (Dorothy) has resigned her position as president of the Cass county Republican Women's club.

Babe has two more years before his retirement from his position with the C. B. & Q. but he says he has plans for doing a lot of hunting and fishing around Naples, and has room for gardening and growing flowers.

and headache. If the dosage is adjusted to your needs, it should not cause side effects. After prolonged use it must be withdrawn gradually or convulsions may occur. Donnalate is a mixture that is given to relieve sour stomach. Because it contains a barbiturate, it may be habit-forming.

Q — Would Valium have a bad effect on one's mental health? Is it habit-forming? What is the difference between Valium and Equanil? A — In some persons Valium may cause manic excitement, depression or hallucinations. These effects disappear promptly when the drug is withdrawn. Anyone taking this drug should avoid all alcoholic beverages. It is not habit-forming. Valium and Equanil, although chemically different, are both minor tranquilizers.

1968 Torino 2-Door Hardtop

Here's a Better "Catch Up" Idea:

TORINO—more car than 16 higher-priced competing models

(longer wheelbase, more room, smoother ride)

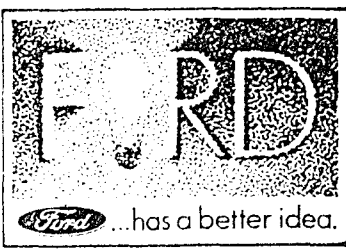

Compare sticker prices. You'll see which intermediate gives you more for your money. Torino—with a full 116-in. wheelbase and Better Ideas. It's a great buy any time, but even better now while your Ford Dealer's making up for lost time.

Torino—Ford's newest bright idea! Six spirited six-passenger cars at the top of the Fairlane line. The Torino GT's—hardtop, convertible, and fastback—all come with Ford's brand-new 302-cu. in. V-8, wide-oval tires, GT stripes, GT wheels, ventless side windows and wall-to-wall carpeting.

The Torino 2-door hardtop and 4-door sedan have luxurious interiors you've never seen before in cars at this price. The Torino Squire station wagon has simulated wood paneling outside, the leathery look of vinyl inside and the convenience of Ford's 2-way Magic Doorgate.

Eight other Fairlanes—including a Fairlane 500 fastback that sears six—give you Torino-inspired styling, too. Whichever you choose—Fairlane or Torino—choose it now while your Ford Dealer is going all-out to make up for lost time.

We hear no noise, we who once felt laughter and glad cries in our midst as copper-mining men walked among us. We stand in sagging glory, old old lives passed over by time in its weathering chill. There is nothing for us left now but the wind, whispering through our fallen hearts. Our sounds of dying carry sadly to unlistening ears beyond the horizon.

We talk together in the shadow of our strongest, yet only dismal mumblings come forth. Our veins are pitted ruin, our minds too weary as slowly we topple into piled hurt. None come here to bring us life again, none have since long ago in 1921.

We hear the meadows rustle beyond, yet no foot crosses to us; shadows caress our tired souls, yet the sun warms us no longer; days pass, one upon the other, yet no hand comes to raise us again.

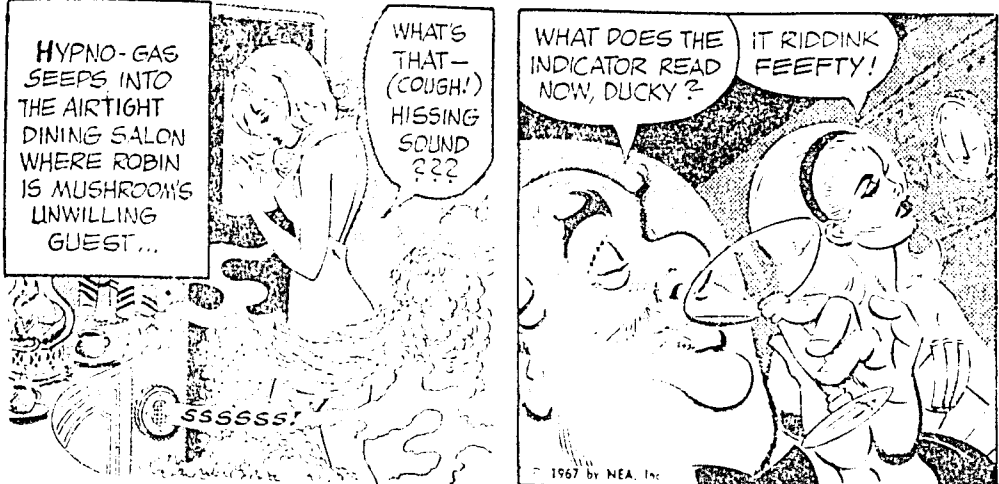

We are tired, we in Michigan who once were called Victoria, built by Man's sweat to be deserted in our prime. We are tired and very much forsaken in this, the hushed silence which is our whole being. We are alone now.

The city council Monday night approved first reading of a change in the liquor ordinance which would allow taverns to open New Year's Eve whenever it happens to be Sunday.

In addition, the council approved second and final reading of an ordinance establishing rates for fire calls outside the corporate limits.

The change in the liquor ordinance would be used every rate on the new city hall finding Dec. 31 happens to fall on Sunday.

Taverns would be allowed to open at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of Dec. 31 and remain open until 2:30 a.m. on New Year's Day.

Package liquor stores are excluded under terms of the proposed ordinance since no requests had been received from that group. No additional fees would be charged.

The ordinance passed first reading over the negative vote of Alderman Carl Bourn.

Fire Protection. Second and final reading of an ordinance establishing rates for fire protection outside the corporate limits was passed with the addition of an amendment.

Believe $1,000 Taken In Theft At Jersey School

JERSEYVILLE—Burglars raided the offices at the Jersey Community High School in this city sometime late Friday night or early Saturday morning according to report made to the City Police Department sometime Saturday.

Original reports made to the local police department indicated that more than one thousand dollars had been obtained by the burglars who cracked the safe in the office of the Community Unit Superintendent Gus Roth.

According to police who investigated the break-in, the burglars made a forced entrance into the building by way of the Art department where they had pried open a window. It was first thought that the burglars might have hidden in the building while a basketball game was in progress at the school gymnasium during the early hours of Friday evening. Most of the money obtained by the burglars was the proceeds from the game which had been stored in the office safe pending deposit in a local bank the following day.

According to police who investigated the burglary, the burglars did not blow the safe but used a "punch" system to force the combination and gain entrance to the cash.

Police here expressed the belief that the work was not that of an amateur cracksmen, but one who knew pretty well the tricks of the safe breaking trade.

Finger prints were being sought, but it is believed that the job may have been a "glove" affair.

Jacksonville Youths Face Armed Robbery Count In Springfield

Three of four Jacksonville residents were arraigned Tuesday morning in Springfield and placed under $10,000 bond on armed robbery and attempted armed robbery charges.

Four young people were apprehended at the west edge of Springfield by Sangamon county sheriff's deputies early Tuesday following an armed robbery and another attempted armed robbery.

All four are currently being held in the Sangamon county jail. They are: Ira Lowe, Jr., 19, of 231 West Chambers; Ella Thomas, 24, of 214 1/2 West Morgan; Linda Chaudoin, 20, of 839 S. Main; and a 16-year-old boy who was not identified because of his age.

Sheriff's deputies said the suspects were arrested after the two men attempted to hold up the Bonafide Oil Station on Springfield's southwest side.

The robbery was foiled when a quick-acting attendant, Sam Fearing, pulled a gun and shot it out with the pair who then fled with the two women in the car.

The foursome is also being charged with an earlier armed robbery of a Clerk Service station at 9th and Edwards on the capitol city's east side.

The juvenile has signed a statement admitting his part in the robberies. The other three have refused to make a statement according to authorities. The 16-year-old has not been formally charged but is expected to be turned over to family service authorities prior to being charged.

Deputies said Mrs. Thomas' 3-year-old child was in the car at the time of the arrests. The child was returned to Jacksonville by a grandparent later Tuesday morning.

The three identified are now held under $10,000 bond and are scheduled to appear again at 2 p.m. Friday.

R.R. Monsignor Driscoll

Monsignor Driscoll was appointed Dean of the Catholic clergy of the six counties comprising the Jacksonville deanery in 1966. He has been active in ecumenical affairs and is a member of the Jacksonville Human Relations Commission. He has been pastor of Our Saviour church since September 2, 1960.

With the entrance of Italy into World War II, he returned to the United States and finished his theological studies at St. Mary of the Lake Seminary in Mundelein, Ill., where he was granted his licentiate in sacred theology.

On November 26, 1956 he was appointed a Domestic Prelate with the title of "Right Reverend Monsignor" by Pope Pius XII.

How does Penney's do it?

By ROBERTA NASH

"How can you offer such consistent value?" a customer asked me.

I put the question to a Penney manager: "The answer may sound too simple. (1) We buy only first quality goods. (2) We buy them at lowest possible prices. (3) We make only a reasonable profit.

"But the real trick is in knowing how. Our buyers are acknowledged the very best in the business. We are known as the world's thriftiest storekeepers. And our ironclad policy is to pass the savings on to our customers."

How to design clothes for kids

By ROBERTA NASH

Children's clothes don't stand still much. They run. And jump. And climb, and twist, and wiggle. Penney's clothes are designed with all these things very much in mind.

First, Penney's things are comfortable. The fit is loose where it's supposed to be loose and snug where it's supposed to be snug. And second, Penney's clothes are very rugged.

Penneys knows what a fourth-grade teacher told me once. "There's a great difference between casual dress and sloppy dress," she said. "Every child can look neat."

How to shop with your husband

By ROBERTA NASH

Here are some random thoughts from one observer:

(1) Husbands are not known for patience. Tell yours how long you expect your shopping trip to take. Fair is fair. (2) Don't carry "togetherness" too far. If he's after a power drill and you want a bra, split up.

(3) But be punctual. If you say you'll meet in half-an-hour, make it half-an-hour. (4) And be businesslike. Much as you'd love to browse about in our lovely dress department, save it for a husbandless day.
